Georgia Institute of Technology Quick Facts

Georgia Tech returns five letterwinners and seven veterans from last year's NCAA Runner-up team that finished the year with the top ranking in the nation in both major polls. The Yellow Jackets entered the season with a top-five ranking for the third consecutive year. Tech as a team has placed in the top three in 33 of its 47 tournaments over the last four years, including 14 victories, four of which have been in the postseason. Tech's finish at the 2000 NCAA Championship matched the highest placing in the program's history, equaling the finish of the 1993 squad.

2000-01 Georgia Tech Golf News & Notes

TECH AT THE NCAA CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Yellow Jackets' 2001 trip to the NCAA Championships will mark the fourth-straight year and the 15th time overall that Tech has appeared in the event. Tech is coming off of its best performance at the NAAs, as the team tied for the lead after 72 holes at the 2000 championship with an NCAA-record score of 36-under-par, 280-282-278-276—1116, before losing a one-hole playoff to Oklahoma State to decide the national champion. Three members of that team are back in 2001, with four of the five players in the lineup having played in at least one NCAA Championship in their careers. Tech's top finisher from a year ago is also back, as Matt Weibring returns after a sixth-place finish with his score of 12-under-par, 71-71-67-67—276. The finish in 2001 marked the second time that Tech had finished as the national runner-up, as the 1993 team also accomplished the feat, led by individual runner-up David Duval, and current PGA Tour player Stewart Cink, who finished tied for 13th. The Jackets have seven top-10 NCAA finishes in their history, with three more placements in the top 15.

JACKETS CLAIM SEVENTH ACC TITLE

On April 22, Georgia Tech used a solid final nine holes to rally and claim the program's seventh Atlantic Coast Conference team championship in Orlando, Fla. The Yellow Jackets used a final-round team score of 8-under-par, 280 and a three-day total of 19-under-par, 280-285-280—845. That score outdistanced third-ranked Clemson by eight shots for the win. Tech was led in the event by senior Bryce Molder, who placed second in the individual standings, and tied the Georgia Tech 54-hole ACC Tournament scoring record with his 11-under-par, 69-70-66—205. All five Yellow Jackets finished among the top 15, as junior Kris Mikkelsen (69-73-71—213) finished sixth and sophomore Troy Matteson (70-74-71—215) was 10th to join Molder in the event's top 10. Junior Matt Weibring finished tied for 12th at 73-71-72—216, and senior Wes Latimer was tied for 15th at 72-71-75—218.

ALREADY GOT ONE FOR THE THUMB

The 2001 edition of the Georgia Tech men's golf team tied a school record when it won the program's seventh ACC title last month, capturing its fifth team title of the season. The Yellow Jackets matched the 1993 team, led by Stewart Cink and David Duval, which also won five events, including the school's fourth ACC crown. Tech was victorious once in the fall at the Carpet Capital Collegiate, and has won an impressive four events thus far in the spring. The four spring wins included three-straight at the Puerto Rico Classic, the Las Vegas Intercollegiate and the Morris Williams Intercollegiate. Along with the five wins, the Jackets have finished in the top three of all but three events this year, and out of the top 10 on only one occasion.

STAYING NEAR THE TOP

After the 1999-2000 team finished the year with a second-place showing at the NCAA tournament, both Golfweek and the Mastercard Collegiate Golf Foundation placed the Yellow Jackets atop their final season rankings. Since that time, Tech has not slipped too far in the polls, holding down the number two spot for much of the spring, while dueling in-state rival and top-ranked Georgia on a number of occasions for team championships throughout the year.

TO BE THE BEST YOU'VE GOT TO BEAT THE BEST

This adage is certainly one that the Tech men's golf team has subscribed to during the 2001 season. The Yellow Jackets have played the second-toughest schedule in the nation, according to the Golfweek Sagarin Performance Index, during the year, while being ranked second in the country for much of that time. With the exception of the ACC Championships, all nine of Tech's regular-season tournaments featured at least seven teams ranked in the current Golfweek/Sagarin rankings' Top 25. Of the nine teams at the ACC Tournament, five were among the Top 25. That works out to 110 of the 178 teams (61.8%) competing in tournaments with Tech in 2001, including the Yellow Jackets, have been ranked in the Top 25. An added note, the first and third-toughest schedules in the nation belong to third-ranked Clemson and top-ranked Georgia respectively.

MOLDER HOLDS TOP RANKING WITH SOLID SEASON

Tech three-time first-team All-American and senior captain Bryce Molder opened the 2000-01 season as the nation's top-ranked individual, and has held that position throughout the year. The Conway, Ark., native finished the regular season with three tournament victories, including a season-opening win in a strong field at the Ping/Golfweek Preview in Durham, N.C., the site of this week's NCAA Championships. Just a few weeks later at the Jerry Pate Intercollegiate, Molder found the winner's circle again by carding a 54-hole score of 17-under-par 67-62-67—196. That total set a new 54-hole school scoring record and would only stand until Molder returned to the course on November 3-5. At the Golf World Invitational, he not only matched the 196, but also fired a final round score of 60, to tie the NCAA record. The final win of the year came at the Morris Williams Intercollegiate, where he finished with a score of 67-68—135, in the rain-shortened event. Entering the NCAA Championships, Molder has an impressive season scoring average of 69.23, which would rank as the lowest in NCAA history, and has a career stroke average of 70.69, which would also be the lowest ever.

IT'S A TEAM THING FOR TECH IN 2001

While for the most part golf is an individual sport on most levels of competition, the college game adds the element of team competition, which requires a solid effort from five individuals rather than just one. Tech has gotten that throughout the 2001 season, as all five players that have played in the majority of the events have at least three top-20 finishes. The Yellow Jackets have 28 top-20s and 15 top-10 finishes this year. Along with overall finishes, Tech has had each of its top-five individuals dip into red figures in a single round on at least nine occasions. Led by Bryce Molder with 25, the Jackets have recorded an impressive 64 sub-par rounds this year; that works out to over 41 percent of Tech's rounds being under par, with 52 percent being at par or better.

MATTESON RECORDS CAREER-BEST FINISH IN LAS VEGAS

Tech sophomore Troy Matteson currently ranks second on the squad with a 72.48 stroke average and turned in one of the top performances of his young career in the Jackets' 24-shot win at the Las Vegas Intercollegiate. The Austin, Texas, native finished second in the event with a 54-hole score of 6-under-par, 72-72-66—210. Matteson was Tech's top individual finisher, leading three Yellow Jackets in the top 10, and marked the top individual finish of his career.

WEIBRING CONTINUES NCAA SUCCESSES

Tech junior Matt Weibring has recorded a pair of top-10 finishes in his career, both of which have come in NCAA competition. The first came last year as he was the Jackets' top finisher at the NCAA Championships in Opelika, Ala., leading Tech to a second-place team finish with his sixth-place finish and a score of 12-under-par, 71-71-67-67—276. Weibring turned in another top-10 last weekend at the NCAA East Regional, as he placed in a tie for 10th with a career-best 6-under-par score of 69-71-70—210.
