Round of 16: No. 6 Georgia Tech (21-3) vs. No. 11 Texas (22-5)

May 19, 2005 • 3 p.m. • Dan Magill Tennis Complex • Athens, Ga.

Georgia Tech's women's tennis team, ranked fifth in the nation in the latest Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) poll with an overall record of 21-3, enters the Round of 16 of the 2005 NCAA Championship as a No. 6 national seed, the first time that the Yellow Jackets have ever been seeded entering the postseason tournament. The Yellow Jackets advanced past the second round for the first time in its six postseason appearances with 4-0 wins over Winthrop and Pepperdine in the Atlanta Regional and will face the 11th-seeded Texas Longhorns Wednesday at 3 p.m. at the Dan Magill Tennis Complex on the campus of the University of Georgia in Athens.

PROBABLE STARTING LINEUP

- The Jackets plan on keeping the same lineup that they have used in each of the last five matches. Overall, Georgia Tech is 5-0 in 2005 using this lineup.

TECH TIDBITS

- This season, Georgia Tech recorded 19 wins over ranked opponents, including seven against teams that are currently ranked in the top-25. A year ago, the Yellow Jackets recorded only eight wins over ranked opponents, and just four over teams that were ranked in the top-50, according to the ITA.
- The Jackets' top player is rookie Kristi Miller, who is ranked 12th in the nation in singles play and combines with sophomore Alison Silverio to form the country's 17th-ranked doubles team. Miller was selected to the NCAA Individual Singles Championship as one of the top-16 seeds, giving Georgia Tech women's tennis its first All-American ever (The top-16 seeds are automatically All-Americans). The doubles team of Miller and Silverio was also selected to the NCAA Individual Doubles Championship, which is the first time that a duo has been selected to represent the Yellow Jackets at the postseason tournament.
- The Yellow Jackets have had a record-breaking season thus far in 2005, setting single-season marks for highest ranking by the team, first national seed in NCAA Championship, highest individual ranking, most overall wins, most conference victories, best overall winning percentage, best conference winning percentage, highest conference finish, most singles victories in a season (by an individual), most doubles wins in a season (by an individual) and highest doubles winning percentage (by an individual). Georgia Tech also recorded its first victory ever against its arch rival, the University of Georgia, after having not beaten the Bulldogs in the 15 previous meetings, and recorded its two greatest feats of 2005 by winning the first ACC Tennis Championship in Georgia Tech history in late April with a 4-3 win over Miami in Cary, NC, and by defeating Pepperdine 4-0 in the second round of the NCAA Tournament to advance to its first-ever Round of 16 appearance. (Season and Career Updates on following pages)

YELLOW JACKETS IN THE NCAA TOURNAMENT

- Georgia Tech makes its sixth NCAA Tournament appearance, receiving its first automatic bid ever after winning the 2005 ACC Championship, and is appearing in the Round of 16 for the first time in history.
- All six postseason appearances have come under current head coach Bryan Shelton.
- Georgia Tech has never entered the postseason as a national seed prior to this season, where it earned the No. 6 seed as the fifth-ranked team in the nation.
- The Yellow Jackets are 6-5 in NCAA Championship play, having advanced to the second round five of six years. The only season that Georgia Tech did not make the round of 32 was in 2001, when UCLA eliminated the Yellow Jackets, 3-4, in Fresno, Calif. This season, Tech has advanced past the second round of the NCAA Championships for the first time in history, with the only other Georgia Tech Round of 16 appearance coming when the Yellow Jacket men's team did so in 1994.

- This will be the first meeting between the Yellow Jackets and Longhorns.

GEORGIA TECH vs. THE NCAA FIELD

- Georgia Tech had six wins over teams that earned one of the 16 national seeds this season, including No. 8 Georgia, No. 9 Miami, No. 12 Clemson and No. 13 North Carolina.
- The Yellow Jackets are now 15-3 this season against the 64 teams in the 2005 NCAA Championship field following victories against Winthrop and Pepperdine in the Atlanta Regional this past weekend, including two wins apiece against Miami, Fla., North Carolina and Florida State. The following is the series record and this season's mark against the six different teams on Tech's 2005 schedule that made the NCAA Round of 16.

TEAM	SERIES RECORD	THIS SEASON
Baylor	Tech leads, 2-1	Tech won, 5-2, in Atlanta
Clemson	Clemson leads, 21-4	Tech won, 4-3, in Clemson
North Carolina	UNC leads, 22-4	Tech won, 5-2, in Atlanta; Tech won, 4-2, at ACC Championship (Semifinals) in Cary, NC

Harvard	Series tied, 1-1	Harvard won, 5-2, in Atlanta
Vanderbilt	Vandy leads, 8-1	Vandy won, 7-0, in Nashville

- Georgia Tech is 73-190 all-time against teams in the 2005 NCAA Championship field, and 45-48 against the 64 teams under current head coach Bryan Shelton. The Yellow Jackets have played against 40 of the 64 teams in the 2005 field, including 26 of the teams under Shelton.
- While the Yellow Jackets have never before participated in Round of 16 in the NCAA Championships, they are no stranger to the other 15 teams that are in the field. Tech is 9-26 all-time against the Round of 16 field, and 8-25 against those 15 teams under Shelton. This season, the Yellow Jackets are 5-2 against the field, with the only two losses coming to Harvard and Vanderbilt.

THE ACC IN THE NCAA'S

- The Atlantic Coast Conference was again well-represented at this year's championships, with eight of 11 teams making postseason play, and three progressing to the Sweet-16. Only the SEC (4) and Pac 10 (4) have more teams in the final championships.
- Fifth-ranked Georgia Tech is one of four ACC teams to earn national seeds, as the Yellow Jackets are the No. 6 seed. Ninth-ranked Miami earned the No. 9 seed, 11th-ranked Clemson is the No. 12 seed, and the 13th-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels were given the No. 13 seed.
- Miami, Clemson and North Carolina also joined Georgia Tech as one of the 16 Regional hosts for this year's tournament, and the Tigers and Tar Heels join the Yellow Jackets in Athens this weekend.

- Rounding out the ACC teams in the championship field were 15th-ranked Duke (at the UNC Regional), No. 28 Wake Forest (at the Kentucky Regional) No.42 Maryland (at the Harvard Regional) and 43rd-ranked Florida State (at the Florida Regional).
- The conference currently has 14 ranked singles players and 11 doubles teams in the top-50. Miami's Megan Bradley and Clemson's Julie Coin are again the country's top two singles players, while Tech's Kristi Miller appears at No. 12, and Florida State's Mihaela Moldovan is ranked 15th. The ACC currently has six ranked doubles teams, including Miami's Bradley and Audrey Banada (3rd), UNC's Aniela Mojzis and Kendall Cline (5th), and Clemson's 12th-ranked duo of Alix Lacelarie and Julie Coin.
- The Yellow Jackets are not slated to face an ACC team in the Round of 16, and wouldn't face another conference team unless either Clemson or North Carolina and the Yellow Jackets were to both make the finals, as both the Tigers and Tar Heels are on the other half of the bracket .

2005 HONORS, AWARDS, and RECORDS

- With a pair of wins against Winthrop and Pepperdine in the Atlanta Regional, Georgia Tech has advanced to the NCAA Round of 16 for just the first time in history. There has been just one Georgia Tech tennis team to advance to the "Sweet-16" before, and that was when the Yellow Jacket men's team did so in 1994.
- The 2005 Georgia Tech women's team accomplished a feat that no other Yellow Jacket tennis team had earned when it went 3-0 in the ACC Championships to earn the first conference championship in Georgia Tech tennis history. The conference championship was also the first one by a team at Georgia Tech in 2005, and one of just two earned by a Yellow Jacket team this season, as the Georgia Tech softball team earned the 2005 ACC Championship this past weekend.
- With nine conference victories this season, Georgia Tech surpassed its previous high of five ACC wins by almost double. The Yellow Jackets recorded their first season above .500 in 13 seasons and just their second winning season ever in 2003 with a 5-3 mark, but a 9-1 mark this year is by far the best league record ever for the Yellow Jackets. Prior to this season's regular-season ACC Title, the Yellow Jackets had never before finished above fourth in the league.
- Georgia Tech's No. 4 national ranking on April 26th ties the record for the highest ranking any Georgia Tech women's team has ever earned. The Yellow Jackets held that ranking for a week before falling to No.5 on May 2nd (the last published poll). The Georgia Tech volleyball team reached a No.4 ranking during its run to the Elite Eight in 2003.
- The 21 dual-match wins this year are the most in Georgia Tech history, with the previous high being set in 1989 and 1990, when the Yellow Jackets recorded a Georgia Tech-record 17 victories under head coach Rick Davison. Prior to this season, the most victories ever under current head coach Bryan Shelton was 15, set in 2002 when the former Yellow Jacket tennis standout earned his last ACC Coach of the Year Award.
- Rookie Kristi Miller became the first Georgia Tech women's tennis player to earn All-America honors when she earned one of the top-16 seeds in the upcoming NCAA Individual Singles Championship, which will be held in Athens, Ga. May 23-28. She was also selected with partner Alison Silverio to represent Georgia Tech in the NCAA Individual Doubles Championship, becoming Tech's first doubles team to be selected to the postseason tournament.
- The Yellow Jackets garnered several Regional honors from the Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) last week, including the Wilson/ITA Coach of the Year, the South Region ITA Assistant Coach of the Year, and the ITA South Region Rookie of the Year honors. Bryan Shelton, in his sixth season at the helm of the program, was named the region coach of the year after guiding Tech to a 19-3 record through the ACC Championship, while Nannie de Villiers, in just her second season at Georgia Tech, earned ITA South Region Assistant Coach of the Year. The 2005 ACC Rookie of the Year Kristi Miller added more hardware with her region Rookie of the Year honors. All three Yellow Jackets are now eligible for the national awards, which will be presented May 22 in Athens, Ga.
- Georgia Tech head coach Bryan Shelton, a former All-American and four-time all-ACC standout for the Yellow Jackets from 1985-88, was named the 2005 ACC Coach of the Year after leading Georgia Tech to a 16-3 regular season record and the No. 1 seed in the ACC Championships with a 9-1 conference record. It marks the second time in the last four years that Shelton has earned the honor, after being named the ACC Coach of the Year in 2002.
- Freshman Kristi Miller, a native of Marysville, Mich., was named the 2005 ACC Rookie of the Year. The rookie leads Georgia Tech in singles victories (40) and is tied with her doubles partner, Alison Silverio, for the most doubles victories (28) this season while playing atop the singles and doubles lineups. It marks the second time in the last three years that a Yellow Jacket has earned the ACC Rookie of the Year, as Kelly Anderson earned Tech's first rookie honor in 2003.
- For the first time in Georgia Tech history, the Yellow Jackets had three players named to the all-ACC team. Rookie Kristi Miller, sophomore Alison Silverio and senior Dasha Potapova all earned the honor for the first time in their careers. Miller, ranked 19th in the nation in singles play prior to the tournament and 18th in doubles, led the Jackets in regular-season singles victories this season and is tied with Silverio for the most doubles wins on the team. She set a new single-season record in both categories earlier this season and currently ranks second for highest singles winning percentage in a single season. Silverio's 25 regular-season singles wins was second only to Miller, but more impressive was her 12-1 record in ACC matches, both in the regular-season and in the tournament. She is tied with Miller for the most doubles victories in a single season and is currently part of the 17th-ranked duo in the nation. Potapova, a senior that transferred to Georgia Tech after playing for the Baylor Bears for three years, earned all-ACC honors for her 22 singles and 21 doubles victories in the regular season. She has played at the Nos. 2 and 3 spots in the singles lineup, while participating primarily at the No. 2 doubles slot. She recorded seven singles and six doubles wins against ACC opponents in the spring and is Georgia Tech's only senior in 2005.
- At the 2005 Yellow Jacket Celebration, which honors the athletic achievements of Georgia Tech student-athletes accomplished throughout the school year, junior Kelly Anderson was named to the Georgia Tech All-Academic Team for her work on the court and in the classroom while Alison Silverio earned the women's tennis Spotlight Award, which is voted on annually by the Georgia Tech Student-Athlete Advisory Board.

- Georgia Tech has had several individual season records broken already this season. Listed below are the top ten lists for singles and doubles wins in a season and the singles and doubles single-season winning percentage:

- Although the Yellow Jackets currently have three players in the top-10 for most singles wins in a season, there is another player on the 2005 squad that could make that list before the season is finished, as Kelly Anderson has recorded 22 singles victories this season. Lyndsay Shosho is also just two doubles victories shy of cracking the top-10 list for most doubles wins in a season, while Whitney McCray needs just four more to make the top-10 record.
- Rookie Kristi Miller's No. 12 ranking this past week is the highest that any Georgia Tech women's tennis player has ever been ranked, while her doubles ranking of No. 11 on Feb. 22nd with Alison Silverio is the highest ever for a Georgia Tech doubles team. Miller is currently ranked 17th with Silverio in doubles.
- With her two victories in the Atlanta Regional, and six consecutive singles wins dating back to mid-April, Alison Silverio now holds the record for highest career winning percentage in singles play, with a .693 mark.
- There have also been multiple other players that have cracked the career lists at Georgia Tech in 2005, and they are as follows: (Minimum of two seasons)

- Alison Silverio also stands tied for fifth for most dual-match wins in a season, with 19 in 2005, while Lyndsay Shosho is currently tied for ninth in the same category. Amy Alsobrook holds the Georgia Tech record with 24 dual-match wins in the 1985 season.
- Lyndsay Shosho is also close on the career singles and doubles victories lists, as she needs four singles wins to stand tied for eighth in career singles wins and just two to stand tied for 10th on the career doubles list. Sophomore Alison Silverio is now seven singles wins away from cracking the career top-10 list for Georgia Tech, and needs just seven doubles victories to stand tied for tenth. With a .579 singles winning percentage, Shosho is just 1/100 of a point shy of making the top-10 list for highest career singles winning percentage.

BRYAN SHELTON UPDATE

- Georgia Tech head coach Bryan Shelton earned his second ACC Coach of the Year honor in his sixth season on the Flats and has had eight all-ACC recipients and two ACC Rookie of the Year honorees named during his tenure. Prior to his arrival, the Yellow Jackets had just six players to earn all-ACC honors in the 14 years that Georgia Tech had been participating in conference matches.
- For his guidance this season, Shelton was also selected as the Wilson/ITA South Region Coach of the Year and is now eligible for the ITA National Coach of the Year honors, which will be announced May 22nd in Athens. Under Shelton, freshman Kristi Miller became the first Yellow Jacket women's tennis player to earn All-America honors while being named the ITA South Region Rookie of the Year.
- Aside from taking the first Yellow Jacket women's team to the NCAA Round of 16, Shelton is the only coach in Georgia Tech women's tennis history to even guide a team TO the NCAA's, which he's done in all six seasons.

ACC Coach of the Year
Bryan Shelton

- Shelton's .630 winning percentage is tops among all Georgia Tech women's tennis coaches, and his 29 ACC victories are more than any other Yellow Jacket coach in women's tennis history. He also has the top ACC record in history at 29-21 in six years, after the Yellow Jackets recorded just 21 league victories in the 23 years prior to his arrival (14 seasons in which the Yellow Jackets were a part of the Atlantic Coast Conference).
- With the victory against Pepperdine in the second round of this season's NCAA Tournament, Shelton became the winningest head coach in Georgia Tech women's tennis history, recording his 87th-career victory at Georgia Tech. Julie Wrege previously held the record with 86 victories in her eight seasons on the Flats.
